TO
PROF. EDWARD R. WINGARD, B. S., A. M., Ph. D.,
WE THE CLASS OF 1918
DEDICATE
THIS LANTHORN

In Recognition of His Great Loyalty to the College and His Lasting Friendship
for the Students

EDGAR RAMEY WINGARD, B.S., A.M., Ph.D.

IN dedicating this issue of the LANTHORN to Professor Wingard, the class of NINETEEN EIGHTEEN feels that they are indeed honoring themselves.

Prof. E. R. Wingard was born at Altoona, Pa., September 21st, 1879. After receiving a preliminary education in the schools of Altoona he entered Susquehanna University and graduated therefrom in 1902. Desiring a more complete education he studied post-graduate work in the Theological Department of Susquehanna in the year 1903.

The following year he secured a position as Athletical Director in the Ohio Northern University, situated at Ada, Ohio. Under his able direction his teams won the championship of Ohio. He remained there several years, and in 1906 he resigned his position, and assumed the duties of Athletical Director and Professor of History at Butler College, Indianapolis, Ind. While here his well-trained teams again won the State Championship.

After a few years at Butler College he undertook the direction of Athletics at the University of Pittsburg. Having been successful in this last position, a still better one beckoned to him from the sunny south, and heeding its call he became Director of Athletics and Professor of History in the Louisiana State University, of Baton Rouge, La. While at this school his football team won the championship of twenty-one states.

In 1909 he returned north and became the Assistant Director of Athletics at the Carlisle Indian School of Carlisle, Pa., the head director being the famous Glenn S. Warner.

In 1910 he became Professor of Physical Education and Director of Athletics in the University of Maine, situated at Orono, Me. Here again his teams won State Championships in all sports.

In 1916 he returned to his Alma Mater, not as a pilgrim, but as a victorious struggler in life's battle, and assumed the Professorship of Physical Education and Director of Athletics.

At no time did he allow his mind to become idle, always striving to enlarge his mental view he studied post-graduate work while at Butler College, University of Louisiana and University of Maine.

He is a member of the honorary athletic fraternity Sigma Psi Delta, and President of the Alumni Association of Susquehanna University.

In securing Prof. Wingard, Susquehanna has secured a man that more than fills the chair of Professor of Athletics, and if assisted by the sincere co-operation of the student body there is no reason why he shall not lift Athletics at Susquehanna to a new standard of superiority.

PROF. WINGARD

GREETING

TO THE COLLEGE

*Come, gentle, timid college lad,
Review with us thine acts;
Behold the past portrayed in this
Compendium of facts!
And if our critic's artful pen
Has been with thee severe,
Mark well thy frailties and remove
The cause the coming year.*

TO THE ALUMNI

*Come fair alumni, search this book—
With pleasantries 'tis rife!
'T will prove to thee a well spent hour,
An elixir of life,
The songs your classmates used to sing,
And memory now recalls,
Are still vibrating much the same
Within the sacred halls.*

TO FRIENDS

*Come all ye friends, and walk with us
These happy paths among;
Already we are joined in heart,
Our praises you have sung,
With friendship's eye across each page
Your happy vision scan,
And close the lids to find yourself
A wiser, better man.*

TO ALL

*Come lad! come lass! come old and young!
Mark how we move along!
Behold THE LANTHORN leading you
Into the land of song,
These pleasures grasp, these flowers view—
And pluck them as you pass;
A royal welcome comes to you
From this, the Junior Class.*

THE ALUMNI

THE Alumni of Susquehanna University is an ever increasing organization. Numbers, however, do not mark its only increase. Spirit and interest has been aroused, and from all corners of the globe messages come from former Susquehanna students. Our activities are more and more becoming their activities. The Y. M. C. A., Athletics, our weekly Susquehanna, and funds for new and needed improvements all have felt the beneficent aid of our loyal Alumni. The call for aid has been sent out quite frequently in the last few years, but our Alumni have never been found wanting—they are truly on the job, always ready to do what they can to help make a Greater SUSQUEHANNA.

Wednesday, June 14th, 1916, marked a day never to be forgotten in the minds of many of our Alumni. That day was their day, it was a grand homecoming of all Susquehanna's graduates; many were the long-separated classmates that then renewed their old friendships and together retold their numerous and varied experiences while still sheltered by their Alma Mater's walls. During the morning a gigantic Alumni parade took place, in which representatives of nearly every class since 1860 participated. Many of them rode in automobiles, carriages and gaily decorated floats, some classes wore ludicrous costumes and marched. An Alumni Luncheon was served in the Gymnasium by the ladies of Selinsgrove, who made it their duty to see that every Alumnus had his or her fill of all that is pleasing to the taste. During the afternoon each class held its reunion on the campus, the phrase "Do you remember," was worn threadbare until evening had come and every one complained of a pain caused by too much and too hearty laughter. When all was over the day was acknowledged by all to have been a great success, and many wishes for an annual Alumni day were expressed.

SENIORS

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

VES, 'tis the last time we will be called upon to give an account of the past for the pages of our College Annual. We have written upon clean pages four long years and what does the record show?

Not indifferent to the seriousness of it all, did the class of '17 enter the portals of dear old S. U. Not unwillingly did we lay our hands to the tasks that faced us at every turn—but, has it been worth while?

If man could know beforehand that to pluck the wild rose from its thorn-protected bower he must first battle against the stinging points, ofttimes he would pass by the beautiful, not willing to pay the price. Through mountain passes and across wide valleys toward the sea of active service the purposeful youth drives with a determination that must not be led away from the beaten trail.

When all has been said and done, and upon nearing the shore we behold the little bark in which we shall sail the seas of life, is there a hesitating? Never! When a class has quietly and earnestly applied itself to the things that are high and noble, such as the class of '17 has tried to do in its brief but busy career at Susquehanna, it is not for one to fear, but only for all to do and dare.

We embark, dear friends, in the morning of life toward the great unknown, strong in our youth, ready to grapple with storm and tide, ready to sing and dance in joyful glee when surrounded with peace and calm, ready to give our all to the cause for which dear old S. U. has moulded us. We are off to sing the praises of Susquehanna forevermore! A fond farewell.

E. M., '17.

THE SENIOR CLASS

LAUNCH OUT

Upon thy shores, O sea of action,
Thou great and world-wide sea,
Are crafts being made to sail
Or float, whate'er their structure be.

O crafts of human powers, try not
The sea, unless divinely wrought,
But set thy sail 'gainst angry gale
And steer to the shore, blood-bought.

Launch out, O crafts, upon the deep,
Stay thou not upon the shoal,
For the ship that's tried will safely ride
The sea to her farthest goal.

Launch out, O crafts, and set thy sail,
Let not the storm direct thy way,
Give God the helm, his mighty hand
Direct thy course, don't sway.

Sail on the deep, O fellow crafts,
Sail out on the world-wide sea;
Defy the storm, rejoice in calm,
For God, for home and eternity.

J. E. R., '17.

SENIOR PROPHECY

AH! 'tis only too true we look upon those years with mingled pain and pleasure. Yet they were good old days. We were all so young and full of life, carefree and hopeful. Just as all others who had gone before—we were “the only” class that ever graduated from Susquehanna. There were “Doc” and “Safety” and “Johnny” and “Al,” and all the rest. Let me tell you they represented the institution with a heap o’ brains and polish as well as grit and humor.

There we were—twenty of us—rejoicing in our youth, defying the world to show us the job we wouldn’t tackle; men and women of experience, some more, some less, mixing fact and fancy into a beautiful dream idol. Ah, yes, there we were! The challenge came, and like gladiators of old, ready for the combat we grappled with the realities of life, one at a time until now—oh, Master of Visions, where are they all, those who were as brothers and sisters to me?

The mystic veil is rent and I peer through the narrow opening of a slowly receding curtain. What? Impossible! Have I lived in this ivy-covered manse all these years, looking through the same old window, upon this beautiful landscape day after day and never before saw that flag of truce planted upon the banks of the babbling brook yonder! Ah-h, am I awake, or just, ah-h, seeing things? I’ve got it! It is another peace note from that grumpy councilman who insisted upon raising my salary to 498 per. I wish he would mind his own business. If he doesn’t soon learn the fact that a minister can get along on 53c a day, keep his wife and family in the latest, spread a table as the kings of old, go motoring twenty times a week, taking a half-dozen parishioners each time, and furnish his own gasoline at $1.00 per gallon—ah, if he doesn’t know all that by this time, I’ll fix him!

What! A wrecked airplane? Why, I thought it was a white flag stuck in the ground—and a dead man?—

How does that feel? Are you resting any easier? Poor soul! I wonder if he knows where he came from. “Yes, I am ‘Al’ Klepfer”—from old S. U., and one of the famous ‘17 class! Rah! But what, in the name of common sense were you doing in that mankiller?

Went into the insurance business, then took post-grad at Yale? Good! Became a Metallurgist, but didn’t like the work and took up aviation? Well, you always were a daring boy, ‘Al,’ and I’m glad to see you serving your country. Those medals speak well of your work. Yes, I have grown a little gray since ‘17, but that is only natural. Say, what has become of ‘us all?’ Way out here among the Rockies I can’t keep in touch with ‘nobody, nohow.’ Doc and I were in the same Synod for a while, but he fell into a swell job and I haven’t heard from him since. Ten years ago that was. Rich! And happy! Good. I knew he was going to be a regular ‘fighting parson’ up there among the old New Hampshire hills. He must be preaching some masterpieces to hold down a job like that.

And what about Bulick? Mr. Bay, as Prexy used to call him. In business? Bulick, Knorr & Stouffer, a good combination. I didn't think Sam would stick to teaching long, not enough money in it. And Knorr, you say couldn't stand the pressure of law. Three hundred thousand a month? Wow! That's some concern. But having everything down to a working basis means a great deal in this day.

Yes, Rine is still blustering away in the pulpit, but he says his lumbago is getting the better of him and he has to take regular exercises to keep down weight. He has stuck to the same post, building up one of his mission congregations to a membership of twenty-five hundred, and they have erected the largest and finest church in eastern United States. He always was a hustler—and all the little Rines are following in their dad's footsteps!

We certainly had a bunch of teachers among our number. There were Jarrett and Herman—the shining lights of the class. I'm not surprised that Kepner is a well-to-do bachelor, but really I thought Phoebe would be a victim of some far-famed lover pleading with tears in his voice. Rothfus and Mummert and Kaylor still teaching? It wouldn't surprise me to see a College President out of this bunch. Not Phillips? Well, what do you know about that! President of 'Ford University,' Chicago—impossible! But if you say so, it must be true. More power to you, 'Eddie.'

You know Kirk is Secretary of Internal Affairs. He usually had the inside dope anyway, especially on the gridiron. Yes, he got a drag somehow and slipped into a lifelong 'loaf' but, you say, he is measuring up to it like a six-foot-three of 42 centimeter calibre! And Bruce had a government job, too, but it didn't last long—or rather he didn't. He was army doctor for a little while and the boys got to kicking because he wouldn't prescribe whiskey for mosquito bites, and one night he disappeared unbeknown to any one. A monument in the National Cemetery at Washington, D. C., holds sacred his memory.

Drumm and Remaly, both happy in old age, are living a retired life. They say their days are numbered and they are ready to give up the ghost. Our own little Marion has saved many an ache and pain by becoming an expert household economist. She has always made it a rule to practice what she preaches, and a cheerful smile always greets her callers. And 'Livy'—yes, her case was hopeless. She would marry a Missionary and go to Africa. No one has heard from her since. But if the Cannibals did eat her, let us hope that her ghost will haunt them day and night until the whole world is Christianized.

Furst comes last, but not least. Gordon was ever 'fair' to look upon, and having broken many a heart, finally settled in a downtown flat in his 'native land' and went into the 'general merchandise business, just to 'while away' the time, having made his fortune in Wall Street while yet a bachelor. —Oooh! What's that? —er—there! It's a good thing that old alarm didn't go off any sooner or this prophecy might never have been finished!

JUNIOR LIFE

JUNIOR CLASS POEM

Let boast who will of his powers to bluff,
Our class does not live to deceive ;
We care not to brag of superior stuff,
But we wish to make known what we believe.

'Tis unity strengthens federation,
'Tis unity that strengthens our bunch ;
As good men make a strong nation
So good classmates make college ties staunch.

We shirk not the work that's before us ;
We rely on the square deal plan ;
We strive to do things without fuss ;
And be honest with our fellow man.

We delve in the works of causation,
And are determined to know the effect ;
We delight in out-door recreation,
And stroll with co-eds select.

As Juniors we would be respectful,
And court no praise unearned ;
At all times seek to be thoughtful,
And hark to the lessons we learned.

May we ever in the dim future,
Prove worthy to old S. U. ;
And then, as now, ever nurture
The zeal that keeps good things in view.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

THE wheel of time has made one more revolution, and with it we again present ourselves to the readers of the LANTHORN—not Sophomores, but illustrious Juniors.

We have been most unfortunate in losing several of our members during the past year, but then we have been equally fortunate in that we have been adding, too, and will be adding, so that by nineteen hundred and eighteen we hope to have our original number realized, if not surpassed.

It is now three years since we entered the stately portals of our beloved Susquehanna to drink from her fountain of knowledge. What joys and pleasures, what triumphs and achievements have been ours since then! We have long ago lost all traces of verdancy and now hold a commanding place of respect among the upper, as well as the lower, classmen. And why not? Hasn't the class of 1918 always been doing her utmost to bring about a greater and better Susquehanna?

Our class boasts of athletic ability. We are well represented on the grid-iron, floor, diamond and track. Although our boys are not dazzling stars in our athletic constellation, our girls have taken a very active and prominent part in this feature of college life. Our girls star not only in basketball, but in tennis as well.

Early in the winter term of 1916, students were seen about the campus and in town, wearing maroon hats with white numeral '18's on them. And as one looked it was soon seen that the hats were worn not only by the fellows, but also by the co-eds of that renowned class. Our girls were the first ones to show their class spirit in this way.

All through our sojourn at Susquehanna we have felt and realized our place and responsibility. This is especially true since we have become Juniors, and must help shoulder the cares and duties of upper classmen.

So you have seen, dear reader, that the members of the class of nineteen hundred and eighteen have always been alert to whatever has been placed before them, so that we cannot help but foretell a prosperous and glorious future for this eminent class.

SELINGSGROVE, PA.

Selinsgrove High School, '14; Philo; Glee Club; Y. M. C. A.; Class Poet (1); Class Artist (2); Editor-in-Chief Lanthorn; Classical; Further Study.

Nickname—Seal By-Word—"Lawd Almighty!"

Emerson said, "Nature is full of freaks," and we here have a specimen of humanity which, in order to diagnose completely, would require the skill of a renowned genius. He is a cross between a foghorn and a Grand Opera singer. And when he starts to sing even the little birds in the trees sit up and take notice.

He is a very sensitive and persnickerty sort of fellow along the lines of etiquette, and is mortally shocked to see some other thoughtless fellow walk along the street with one of the fair sex on the outside of the walk. He is very fond of literature, and reads cartloads of moving-picture magazines and can put any movie manager to shame discussing the different actresses. Oh, yes, he notices the ladies and the parts they play, all right. But well versed as he is among these lines, the Dot-ty series are his specialty. He delights in telling his classmates how little he studies and how easily he gets through in his recitations. This is accounted for by good bluffing. Unwinding his legs, which, by the way, are generally on some other fellow's seat, he arises and in oratorical tones spins out such a flow of unknowns that the Profs. get blue in the face and mark up 98's for him.

As yet he has not fully decided what he will do after his school life is over. He has a theatrical trend of mind, but may become a minister and spend his life in the sunny fields of Africa; but, whatever he does, we wish him success.

Nickname—Jim, Rip By-Word—!—,?x—/;!&

And there came a-oozin' out of Belleville another unknown quantity. To find its value was the problem which confronted us for two years. At first we were inclined to think Jim rather quiet, but we have been compelled to change our minds on that point, as his second nickname will testify. It has been discovered that he can hold his own with any one when it comes to making noise or raising the Old Nick.

To eulogize upon all his good traits would require a book containing as many pages as there are stars in the ethereal heavens. But one of his lines of greatest achievement lies on the football field. He is one of those fellows who do well whatever they may have to do. Sometimes one would think, to hear him talk, he is about to do something violent; but we have long since ceased to fear him when this mood is upon him. For no matter how mad, he seems, always to remember that he is not, but is, in fact, very gentle and harmless.

Though overstudy never afflicted this young man, he has frequently demonstrated that he has plenty of brains; only they are like some people's good manners: they have 'em, but they don't use 'em. However, as a student Jim does well in his classes so long as he stays awake, but sometimes when the instructor calls on him there is no response, and Jim is fast asleep.

FLORENCE SHEETZ LUBOLD

SELINGSGROVE, PA.

Selinsgrove High School, '14; Sophomore Bible Prize; Class Secretary (3); Associate Editor Lanthorn; Clio; General Science; Teaching.

Nickname—Flossie By-Word—"Didn't I tell you so"

This damosel is ticketed to be America's Lydia Pankhurst. She ever delights in declaiming on the woman's rights question and telling insignificant and mere man what he should do and how he should act. "Flossie" hails from the suburb of Selinsgrove, known as the Isle of Que. On the one hand flows the serene and mighty Susquehanna, and on the other the cool and rippling Penns Creek, with the gigantic Mabanoy Mountain looming darkly in the distance. Because of this serene and aquatic environment she likely acquired her majestic bearing and flow of ironical adjectives.

Many times a day she can be seen moving along these quiet waters, ever piercing their innermost depths for a face—a face of a certain minister, although he never knew that his face is pleasing to this maiden. "Flossie" keeps this secret idol carefully secreted in her heart and ever delights in saying that she is invulnerable so far as men are concerned. In the classroom she is, indeed, at home. No matter what question the Prof. asks she has an eager answer, and usually as correct as the mind can make reply. As you see her approaching arrayed in her military coat and army hat, walking along with long, firm strides, she easily might be mistaken for a Cossack Princess making a tour of the United States.

Whatever position in life she may fill, be she a missionary or (perish the thought) the wife of one, we, the class of 1918, wish her success.

*"She is little, but she's wise;
She's a terror for her size."*

Nickname—Woodie By-Word—"For cats' sake!"

"Our Woodie"—yes, we are proud to have this Doctor's son as one of us. This "big cheese" as he appears among us has many characteristics which make him prominent. He has a very sociable nature among the fair sex, altho not "Long." He is favored, in that his parental authority is continually reminding him of his privileges. It has been noticed that he is not allowed to remain away from home any length of time, possibly because he may be led away from the abiding influence of the home. Altho not naturally of a tormenting nature, we often find him letting little mischievous stunts burst forth, to the surprise of all of us. His special feature is his extreme dignity of poise and manner in public activity.

In order to overcome a nature oftentimes grouchy, he has taken to dancing. With this additional accomplishment he is more able to afford amusement when asked to help entertain. He has a special interest in everybody's welfare, and has been known to plan things carefully in order to have comfort and happiness prevail among the party. Being our worthy class president during our Freshman year, he inspired us with a purpose in life with a motto: "Life is nothing of a chance. 'Tis we who make it what it is." Since his personal aim is to better himself and remain true to his friends and classmates, he has become a good example to all of us. His diligence in all things and his tenacity of purpose have made him grasp the foundations for a successful career.

Nickname—Dot By-Word—"By Gee, I hope so!"

"Dot," for such is she universally known, hails from a neighboring county and the Knob Country. She is the guiding hand of many of the University organizations, and lends a tremendous impetus to the affairs of our class; for when she is once set in motion, being of such gigantic proportions, one would think that a change in Newton's Law would be the only force that could impede her kinetic energy. "Dot's" favorite sports are tennis and basketball, and she is noted for her activities in the latter. When she is not in class you may find her in the hall near the vocal studios admiring Selin's semi-baritone voice making a racket like a volcanic upheaval something like this, "My love shall never grow c-o-l-----d." This young lady has also distinguished herself in the classroom, and last year was awarded two prizes for having the highest grades. "Dot's" avoirdupois is not the least of her possessions, but we will not embarrass her at this point by revealing how many hundred pounds she does weigh.

To "Dot" we will predict the brightest future. Upon graduation she will enter the pedagogical field, in which, we are sure, she will attain marked success. We are confident she will be an honor to the class of 1918 and to her Alma Mater.

"'Tis a most capable and wise head we have here."

QUEKAKE, PA.

Susquehanna Academy, '14; Philo; Y. W. C. A.; Class V. Pres. (1); Class Poet (2); Class Treasurer (3); Soph. Bible Prize; Girls' Glee Club (1, 2); Classical; Further Study.

Nickname—Mey By-Word—"Oh, Sugar!" (Accompanied by a squirm.)

Here is an easy-going, contented individual who seems to enjoy life in a moderate, sensible way. She is of the soft-pedal, rubber-tired kind, and rarely makes a noise, except when giggling. Her first two years in college were spent in the acquisition of useful knowledge; and that she was successful no one will deny. Her Junior year was spent in making up for lost time along social lines; and in this also she was successful, and now is one of the select crowd known as the "College Cut-Ups." But even under these present circumstances she can frequently be found in her room with her head buried in a Greek text book.

But when it comes to having something done, whether it be in Y. W. C. A., class, basketball or anything else, Miriam is a very good person to elect for the position, because you can always be sure that it will be well done. She is also fond of outdoor sports, especially tennis.

She does not bother her head much with the fellows around S. U., and has been heard to say that they are too slow; so from this we deduce that she is a woman of wide experience and has probably bestowed her affections elsewhere.

Thru her agreeable manner and willingness to do things, we predict success for her in whatever she attempts.

*"If you would live with ease,
Do what you ought, not what you please."*

GEORGE KRUMRINE SWARTZ, A. S. Ω

TUSSEYVILLE, PA.

Susquehanna University Academy; Assistant Baseball Manager (3); Y. M. C. A.; Business Manager of the Lanthorn; Clio; Classical; Medicine.

Nickname—Venus By-Word—Poor D— ———?

Behold the portrait of the living Venus! This name is applied because of natural characteristics. Whether or not he is as beautiful as this goddess we cannot determine; however, his facial features are prominent, having a square forehead, very straight, stubborn hair, and, altho generally speaking, he wears a smile that will not vanish. Give him time and room to speak and he will say just whatever he thinks. This he will do very audibly, for his voice is undoubtedly developed as to volume. He is also noted for his quick thinking, very often alarming himself and others by saying just what he should not. He is very demonstrative, always keeping his hands in tune with his face. Very often we see him aiding his expression by gesticulating with his feet also. To overcome this awkwardness and amusing nature we find "Venus" taking dancing lessons. Surely, when he gets all these mixed together he will be quite accomplished. Among us he is noted for his exclusive wit and humor, and due to these characteristics he numbers many persons as his close friends. Altho coming from the demure Pennsvalley, he can boast of his birthplace as containing both "Penn State" and the "State Penn." Aside from all this, George has taken an active part in class affairs. Thru hospitality and studious inclinations we predict a bright and successful career.

"Give thy thoughts no tongue."

LULU ESTHER FETTEROLF

SELINGROVE, PA.

Selinsgrove High School, 1914; Philo; Basketball (1, 2, 3); Associate Editor Lanthorn (3); Glee Club (3); General Science Course; Teaching.

Nickname—Lu By-Word—"Oh! You old pill"

Lu came to join us from the sunny hills of a Snyder County farm, where sauerkraut grows in abundance, and it sure seems to have agreed with her, for she is one of the University's most sturdy girls and holds a position on our Co-ed Basketball team. County lassies are usually supposed to be bashful, but not Lu. No, indeed; she is one of the exceptions. More nerve is her slogan as she goes along. In beating the Profs, to it she is not to be excelled. When called upon to recite Lu can be seen to slowly arise, look the Prof, calmly in the face and recite part of yesterday's lesson. She has joined the back-row club that has been formed in history and some of the other classes, and is one of the most faithful members, even if she is daily called down and severely talked to on account of her tongue being always on the wag. This fall she was fatally wounded by one of Cupid's darts, and since then life has been flowing along like a song, everything Harmon-izes so well. Lu is rather a good-natured kid, but when she gets a grouch on, then is the time to become as inconspicuous as possible until her wrath has subsided and she is again her amiable self. She is fond of springing jokes, and does actually get a good one off once in a great while. She expects to take up teaching, but it is hard to say just along what lines; but we all think it will be along the lines of home life before many a year, and wish her the best of success in all she may chance to undertake.

"As an owl, always looking wise."

YEAGERTOWN, PA.

Yeagertown High School, '14; Mt. Hermon School, '15; Varsity Football (3); Varsity Baseball (2); Scrub Basketball (2, 3); Assistant Statistician Lanthorn; Athletic Board (3); Y. M. C. A.; General Science; Medicine.

Nickname—Jew By-Word—"By Jee!"

Reader, be not deceived; he does not come from Jerusalem, as you may judge from his appearance, but from Yeagertown, Pa. Nor did he carry a small red pack when he arrived, but a trunk, which was later taken by free delivery one cold night to a certain farmhouse situated along the Freeburg road. Jew is the athlete of our class, and we are proud of him. Altho small of stature, he enters sports with a grim determination to win. As a student he does fairly well, considering the time he spends upon school work. He can usually be seen in the Gym, or else en route to Penns township, where a great portion of his time is spent among the fair sex, basking in his Helen's sunny smile, with whom he takes many strolls under the light of the silvery moon. In his trips to the aforementioned farm he is not permitted to travel alone, but in the company of his faithful friend, Dutch Harman. In spite of this enumeration of failings, Jew is a mighty good fellow, and has won the hearts of all his classmates by his kind and generous personality. Altho he is preparing for medical service, he may turn out to be an impounder of dogs. Whatever he chooses as his work, we are sure, he will become successful.

"Blessings on thee, little man."

KATHRYN VIOLA PERSING

ALLENWOOD, PA.

Allenwood High School, '14; Class Treasurer (2); Basketball (1, 2, 3); Y. W. C. A.; Clio; Latin Scientific; Further Study.

Nickname—Katie By-Word—"For Goodness' Sake!"

Not far from the banks of the Susquehanna just north of us is the home of our classmate "Katie." She has come to us from this quiet hamlet in order to expand and develop her knowledge of the universe and her place in it. Altho of a perpetually sleepy nature, she has plenty of get-up when the alarm is sounded for meals. She is in evidence as one who burns plenty of midnight oil, for which we credit her ability to try. But how can she study when she is asleep? That is the question. In recitation she gives us the real expression of one phase of her nature—when she once decides not to recite, there is no one who can change her mind and banish her stubbornness; for when she will not, she will not. If she does know all these things, she will not tell what she knows. But we hope she will see the usefulness soon and surprise us by expounding some of her great storehouse. She has never been known to make much noise, and her presence is often known only after hearing her merry laughter. She has won personal fame by the interest she takes in athletics. Never known to falter, always doing the best in something she likes. In conversation "Katie" constantly uses a figure of speech—"WHAT!"—well known to all of us. It may be that she has a picture of an interrogation point continually upon her mind as a reason for her great questioning. She is very popular among the girls, her room being a continual loafing place during the seven days of the week. Being of a cheerful nature at all times, she will not be troubled in getting acquainted in any place that she may choose to go.

"This lady, in truth, is young, fair and gentle."

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Huntingdon High School, 13; Juniata College; Statistician Lanthorn; College Band (3);
Clio; Scientific; Further Study.

Nickname—Dutch By-Word—?x—;#—!&!/?

This untamed young'un arrived from the wilds of Huntingdon and entered Susquehanna a year later than the rest of us. In company of the fair sex he is a veritable knight, but, oh! he has a different story behind their backs. He has a wonderful power over the ladies and thinks life is not worth while unless he has at least two within easy reach. He is fond of loafing, and his delight is at its height when the old Victrola is grinding away some Hono-LULU strain, which, of course, is his favorite kind of music. He can usually be found on his way to the country to visit the country lassies. Occasionally he spends a few hours at school; and, indeed, those spent in the schoolrooms are known as his regular sleeping hours. Taking a glance at him one might think he was a rather calm fellow, but be not deceived; he is renowned for his windy disposition. But "Dutch" is still young and preparing for medical service, whence he may have the opportunity to mend some of the hearts he has broken and prove an honor to the class of nineteen eighteen, who all wish him great luck.

"He knoweth the universe, himself he knoweth not."

HELEN PRUDENCE HOLSHUE

SELINGSGROVE, PA.

Selinsgrove High School, '14; Philo; Assistant Business Manager Lanthorn; General Science; Further Study.

Nickname—Helena By-Word—"Glory"

Here is another of those lucky girls who do not have to live under restrictions. The rules concerning noise would not bother her much, tho. We know this because we never hear her make unnecessary noise in class or anywhere else. She is, indeed, blessed that she can enjoy all the comforts of home and the privileges of college life at the same time.

There is no question but what Helen is a good student and willing to burn the midnight oil when necessary, but when there is any fun on board she is right there ready and anxious to help. At feeds which she attends she can always be depended upon to open milk cans, cut bread and keep things lively by filling up all conversational gaps with a squeal or a giggle.

She is more inclined to be independent than most of the members of our class, and when she gets an idea into her head you may as well be resigned to make the best of it.

As to her loves and hates, we are unprepared to make any statement, altho we take for granted that she has some, but very wisely. I suppose she keeps such matters to herself.

"Beautiful behavior is the finest of fine arts."

HELEN MARIE FETTEROLF

SELINGSGROVE, PA.

Selinsgrove High School, '14; Philo; Girls' Basketball (1, 2, 3); Lanthorn Artist; General Scientific; Teaching.

Nickname—Joe By-Word—"By Joe"

"Joe" is the youngest member of our illustrious class, but this is not saying that she is the dullest. She is, indeed, brilliant both in class and social life. For the last few years "Joe" has been daily covering the distance between the farm where she resides and the classic halls at which she is striving to convert her spacious head into well-regulated and tabulated volumes of knowledge, which at some future date it is her intention to utilize in filling the vacuum minds of some public school at which she will preside as teacher. "Joe" has never been known to be lonely, for since she was "knee high to a grasshopper" all the swains in sight have been attracted by her dazzling beauty; and she has surrounded herself with a wall of broken hearts, over which a modern Siegfried, commonly known by the appellation "Jew," has climbed and is now firmly established in this maiden's thoughts. "Joe" has been identified as an essential unit of the girls' basketball team for the last four years. She is an all-around athletic girl, but her favorite sport is Riden'. Whenever there is a call for volunteers to assist in putting a joke over, if "Joe" is at the helm, the joke is sure to be a success. She is a most volatile person, always keeping up an uproar and incessantly wagging her tongue. But do not judge from this that she is a gossip, for it is only on rare and just occasions that she tumbles for this failing of her sex. But whatever she does and wherever she may choose to go, of one thing we are certain—that her pleasing personality will always win for her many and close friends and success.

"She bore a mind that envy could not but call fair."

PAUL A. ROTHFUS

MONTOURVILLE, PA.

Muncy High School; Lycoming Normal, '14; Scrub Football, Scrub Basketball, Scrub Baseball (2) (3); Statistician Lanthorn; College Band; Y. M. C. A.; Clio; Latin Science; Medicine.

Nickname—P. A. Peck By-Word—"Teh-h Heck"

After changing his mind as to a place of education we find this contented individual enjoying life in a talkative way at Susquehanna. "P. A." is a great ladies' man, and from the scarcity of his tresses we are not to blame as thinking of him as being hen-"Peck"-ed. Sometimes he is assured a reserved seat in the bald-headed row of our classes. He, too, has a fondness for remembering anecdotes, which he is continually telling. It is not so much the story as the way in which he tells it that is laughable. His demonstrations are vivid and his bluffing is indeed captivating to those who are not aware of his ways. He has remarkable ability in getting over the ground, due to his long, drawn-out stature. In chemistry he has endeavored to be a prize winner, but his time is consumed in playing with the different elements and tantalizing those about him. He never tried to bluff any of the Profs., because he looks upon them as being able to look right into the innermost depths of his brain and find the known "little corner." It is his great taste for clothes that has made him noticeable. To look at him when fixed up you are at once reminded of the elite. There, we have been thinking about him and he appears right on the scene, as usual. This time in his portrait. From his great conversational and winning ways he will undoubtedly grow immensely popular wherever he may go, and only success will be his headlight.

"He seemeth good indeed, but oh so vain and empty."

STELLA SCHADEL

KLINGERSTOWN, PA.

Susquehanna Academy, '14; Clio; Statistician Lanthorn; General Science; Further Study.
Nickname—Midgit By-Word—"Oh, Gosh"

Look! (But fill your ears with cotton.) Here we present one who is capable of talking on any subject for at least one hour without once pausing for breath and without saying anything. Wonderful? Well, I guess. Her favorite subject, however, is of her many and varied experiences, mostly in affairs of the heart, which from frequent piercings must be quite a leaky organ. She is a competent instructor along these lines and is most liberal with her advice to any one not so well acquainted in such things.

But happily for the peace and comfort of the school, her remarkable talent along musical lines was only discovered during her Junior year. But she is making up for lost time now, and she chooses very inopportune places for her practice, the Chemistry Laboratory being one of her favorites. You can usually hear her in the hall calling in a shrill, penetrating voice "Meeriam" any time of day or night.

But Stella is also a good student and she usually knows her lessons, and when she doesn't she is a pretty good bluffer. She does not believe in taking life too seriously. On the contrary, she always wears a pleasant smile, a "smile that won't come off," even when she is compelled by social obligations to go to class in Psychology or Logic unprepared.

She is also right there when there is a joke to be pulled off on any one, and no crowd would be dull for very long with Stella one of those present.

Whatever career Stella chooses, we are sure that her sunny smile and cheerful disposition will win friends for her wherever she goes.

"Never mind, you'll hear me coming."

SOPHOMORE CLASS POEM

If in your task you would succeed,
This motto you must surely heed,
Which great men everywhere confess
To be the secret of success:
"Be Thorough."

Then all you do, do with your might,
Things done by halves are ne'er done right,
This is the saying tried and true.
Remember as your work you do:
"Be Thorough."

And if at first you don't succeed,
Just try, try again.
For you at last will win the prize,
And over difficulties rise.
"Be Thorough."

SOPHOMORE HISTORY

AS is the case with all classes, we Sophomores returned in the fall to the halls of dear old S. U. only to find that some of our number who, for the last time as Freshmen, marched in the Alumni parade on the previous commencement, some of whose prowess in helping to gain for eminent '19 the interclass track meet we are justly proud, some who shared the fun of the class picnic, some, we repeat, did not return. But others have filled the ranks and today the class of nineteen nineteen is as large and more illustrious than in the previous year.

During the first night of our return proclamations appeared acquainting the puerile, verdant Freshman with the mandates and punishments of majestic '19. Daybreak saw not a single proc destroyed. A few nights later these unsophisticated babes set out to mar the walks with red and gray '20s. But the Sophomores were ever alert and watching, as was evident when the morning sun shed his rays upon few numerals not covered with black paint or effaced.

According to the rule of the upper classmen we met these Frosh on Warner's Field on the afternoon of September 28th, 1916. Determined and encouraged by the loyal rooting of the Sophomore co-eds, we rushed into the fray. Although outnumbered almost two to one, we struggled courageously, but were defeated for the first time, 11-3.

Early in the term we enjoyed a hike and a wiener feed in the woods in honor of the new members. A house party was another social event of that term.

Following the precedent of our predecessors, we published a Sophomore Calendar, this year devoted to athletics. It was decidedly popular and novel, both in shape and composition.

Nor is the glory of the class of '19 dim in any of the activities of dear old S. U. Prominently represented in all lines of athletics our class boasts of having as members the captains of the 1916 football team and of the 1917 track team. In Y. M. C. A., Glee Club, both Societies and Fraternities, loyal Sophomores are actively engaged.

But now we must leave the role of Sophomore as we have done that of Freshman. Cheerfully working, with our glorious motto, before us and our past achievements urging us to greater, as Juniors we shall do our best for the honor of NINETEEN NINETEEN and the advancement of dear old S. U.

THOROUGHNESS,

FRESHMEN CLASS POEM

How dear to our hearts are the scenes of our freshmen
 When green recollections present them to view,
The English, the Greek, the deep-tangled Latin
 And every loved classroom our infancy knew,
The wide-spreading chapel, the rooms that stand by it
 The office where bells and dews always fell;
The cot in my room, the dirty floor nigh it,
 The table, the washstand, the wardrobe as well.

How sweet from the green we emerged in the springtime,
 As nearing the end of our good freshmen year,
Looking back we feel somewhat loathful to leave it
 But our look to the future is never once drear.
Good fortune's been with us, we never once faltered,
 In sports of the classroom, in sports of the track;
We hope that we're looking a little bit altered,
 In the fall of next year—you'll see us all back.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

ON the twentieth of September, nineteen hundred and sixteen, there appeared on S. U.'s campus many new faces. So many of these enrolled as members of the class of 1920 that we comprise the largest class in Susquehanna's history.

The Sophs soon undertook the self-appointed, but long-precedented, task of teaching our verdant feet in what paths they should go. Their words of experienced wisdom appeared at prominent places on the campus. "Those who run may read." But we did not run. We solemnly met, selected needful officers and colors, and acted. Our actions became evident the following morning, for brilliant maroon and gray '20's appeared everywhere.

The afternoon of September the twentieth was appointed by the upper classmen as the proper time for the Fresh-Soph tie-up. Our insignia of green was deemed a fit token to distinguish us from our opponents. After ten minutes of valiant endeavor, we counted noses and found only two missing. The Sophs mourned the loss of eleven. True, we outnumbered them, but eleven-two was not the proportion.

Our Freshman caps arrived, and we were again a distinguished bunch, that is, distinguished from the rest rather than in the sight of the rest. The color scheme of these badges of training was practically the same.

In mid-winter, our class celebrated its existence by sledding to Middleburg, where a sumptuous banquet was supremely enjoyed. We succeeded fully in keeping the affair a secret until our absence was noted by all those whom it concerned. It will ever be one of our most pleasant memories.

In athletics the class of '20 is right there with the goods. This has been shown in football and basketball; it will doubtless be shown in baseball and track. Our class contains several who are truly among Susquehanna's best: we are proud of them.

The class of '20 has been dealt with squarely in every way. We gratefully appreciate this on the part of every one, especially on the part of our worthy predecessors, 1919. We hope we may follow the example of those who have gone before, for we want to do our best for S. U. and our class. We shall soon lay down our duties as Freshmen and assume the greater ones as Sophomores. May we be worthy! "Acti labores jucundi."

But we are not finished with work at S. U.
Let us look to the future with courage anew;
Then there'll be reward aplenty
For the good class of '20.

SUB-FRESH PROPHECY

WHAT remarkable changes are brought about as the years pass by. It was nineteen hundred and thirty-eight, while attending one of the greatest events known in the history of the world: "The Universal World's Peace Conference," at Washington, D. C. I was very much taken by the able manner in which the president of the conference discharged his duties, and on inquiring of friends who sat near me, I found this man to be none other than my old friend and classmate, the Hon. Rev. James Homer Goss, who was now foremost leader of Lutheranism in Germany.

The "address of welcome" was given by a man whose face seemed to be strangely familiar, and after he had finished speaking I recognized him as Mr. Warwick Waldron, ambassador from the United States to England. The music was of the best that art has designed and was given to the assembled multitude with such wonderful force by Prof. William Thomas Decker. A speech on the "Benefits of Universal Peace" was very ably and forcefully given by Rev. Clarence Edmund Naugle, D.D., now pastor of the First Lutheran Church of Washington, D. C.

The conference was closed by a movement introduced by David Frederick Treaster, now President of France, to sign a pledge, taking oath before God to never break it as long as the world shall exist. As I was leaving this assemblage of distinguished representatives from all over the civilized world, I chanced to meet the King and Queen of Spain, and I soon recognized the Queen to have been our old classmate, Miss Helen Louise Rhobach, now the wife of King Ferdinand. I also met some of the members of the President's cabinet, one of whom I recognized as Earl Frederick Moyer, now Secretary of Agriculture of the United States of America.

The following day I returned to visit the young ladies and gentlemen of old Susquehanna, now the foremost University in the country, by the latest means of transportation, traveling in a carriage at the rate of four hundred miles per hour, by means of a vacuum tube. Upon inquiring who invented this I was told that it was Mr. Russel Frail Steininger, the world famous inventor and designer.

SUB-FRESHMAN CLASS POEM

Of all the words of tongue or pen,
One reigns supreme within our minds.
Yes, we speak of Susquehanna,
Her deeds broad cast by Father Time
Who, with each departing year
Strikes loud the bronze chime,
That all the world may know and hear
Of these dear halls sublime.

We, the infants in her midst,
Will soon stand at her parted doors
Thanking her for her benefits,
In those academy days now o'er.
We'll ne'er forget those pleasant scenes
And happy hours now at an end,
But stop, let us of seventeen,
Hereby resolve to return again.

Let us re-enter her longed-for gates,
And make it our purpose with hearts sincere
To strive for a "Susquehanna" more great,
Throughout our coming college years,
Than she has been in her noble past.
This done, we'll tell the story sweet
To all her friends that chance to ask,
And e'en to all we chance to meet.

ATHLETICS

ATHLETICS.

THE battle today was won long years ago on the play fields of Eton," was the tribute paid to his school days by the Duke of Wellington after the memorable battle of Waterloo . . . The demand for play is a natural instinct of humanity. In his puerile wars and battles of conquest, the lad of today learns to fight life's battles of tomorrow.

In these days of increasing luxury, ease, and softness, the influence of wholesome athletics in developing character and toughening moral fiber must not be ignored. In athletics are taught and developed self-control and self-surrender, alertness of mind and body, courage, and the ability to act and think quickly for one's self.

In the past year the friends of Susquehanna have awakened to the true significance of athletics as a potent factor in the building of a greater Susquehanna. Plans have been carefully laid and carried out for the development of this branch of work, and now every loyal supporter of Susquehanna can justly feel proud of the representative teams which are sent out.

Athletics were put on a firm standing by the new constitution which was drawn up in the Spring of '16. Now everything is done in systematic order and the interest and ability of every student is ably directed by the Director of Athletics, who is a member of the Faculty.

The effect of this reformation of athletics has been noticed by every one but the cause must not be overlooked . . . Coach E. R. Wingard, as head of the Department of Athletics is the one who deserves a large part of the credit for the rapid progress of this department so important in any school.

COACH
WINGARD.

ATHLETIC BOARD.

THE ATHLETIC BOARD.

IN keeping with the new Athletic Constitution adopted by the Student Body last fall, the Athletic Board now consists of nine members; three being elected from the Faculty, three from the Alumni and three from the Student Body, with the Athletic Director as a member ex-officio.

One prominent feature in this year's business is that all expenditures must have the sanction of the Athletic Director, and all bills are paid by him, thereby eliminating many of the former financial leaks.

BASEBALL

VARSITY BASEBALL TEAM

1916 BASEBALL REVIEW.

SUSQUEHANNA'S baseball season of 1916 can hardly be called successful from the number of games won, which fact was due almost entirely to the lack of pitchers. Peters was the only veteran for this position, and did his work nobly, but due to unavoidable conditions, he was unable to accompany the team on the principal trips. Keeping this fact in view, and with Swoope, the veteran outfielder called to the mound position, he, as well as the team, deserve much credit for their showing.

Snow and rain intervened, causing most of our early games to be cancelled. The big surprise of the season came when on the morning of April 1st the team arose from peaceful slumbers with high expectations of motoring to State College, there to play the initial game of the season, when to their surprise the grass so recently seen on all sides was imbedded beneath six inches of fluffy snow. Thus the high expectations fell and practice was necessarily postponed for several days.

The appearance of Syracuse on our baseball schedule created much interest. The management was fortunate enough to secure a date with them on their southern trip. We were not disgraced by any means. The visitors won 5 to 0, but considering the size of the two schools they only earned due credit. We hope for future contests with this large university, both on the diamond and gridiron.

Swoope, the veteran of four sports, who has served his school well, will be lost to next year's team, but other losses will be meager. To offset this several excellent finds have been made this year, the most valuable of which is Riden, who covered shortstop this season. He hails from Yeagertown, Veteran Miggs' home town, and has two more years here. His record of this season can only be excelled by his future playing at Susquehanna.

Peters, the old standby on the mound, has one more year in which to complete his brilliant career. Among the seasoned veterans for next year will be found Middlesworth, Smith, Harkins, Shannon, Farrell, Duck and Phillips. Around this nucleus, together with new material, Captain-elect Klepfer should find no trouble in turning out a winning team in 1917.

VARSITY FOOTBALL TEAM

1916 FOOTBALL REVIEW.

THE Nineteen-Sixteen Football Team will go down in history as one of the best teams that ever represented this institution in the gridiron sport. Four games were won and five lost, which is an exceptionally good record when we consider the calibre of the teams that were played.

One of the main factors in the success of the team was the new Professor of Athletics, E. R. Wingard. He whipped a team together during his first year as coach that accomplished something that had never before been realized at Susquehanna, viz.: win a football victory over Bucknell and Albright. The Carlisle Indians were also forced to taste of the cup of defeat on the Warner Field and later the same fare was served the Mt. Carmel A. C.

The Susquehanna warriors demonstrated to the football world in the first contest that they were not to be considered as easy prey. With only two scrimmages they invaded Beaver Field and held Dick Harlow's bunch to 27 points; good football was also in evidence in the Colgate game, but their weight told in the final struggle.

The old rival of Susquehanna, Bucknell, was next taken into camp at Lewisburg for the first time. Every team has their off-day and Susquehanna seemed to strike it at Fordham, where they were defeated by a large score. Albright and Carlisle Indians were both defeated by decisive scores, but the Orange and Maroon men struck a snag at Syracuse. Mt. Carmel was defeated by an overwhelming score on the Warner Field, but Lebanon Valley won the final game of the season in a closely contested battle on the Meredith Field, Sunbury.

VARSIY BASKETBALL TEAM

1917 BASKETBALL REVIEW.

SUSQUEHANNA was represented at the close of the season by probably one of the fastest teams that the institution has ever sent out. With a nucleus of two of last year's squad around which Coach Wingard was compelled to build his team, was probably the reason for the team not winning consistently during the beginning of the season.

In the preliminary games of the season with Berwick Y. M. C. A. and Susquehanna Alumni the Varsity had no trouble in defeating them. However, it was not until we met Gettysburg on our own floor that the real test of the year came; in this contest we went down to defeat to the tune of 47 to 26. This game seemed to serve its purpose, for, during the remainder of the season there was a decided improvement in all the departments of the team.

The next two games with Bloomsburg Normal were also easy victories. In both of these games our opponents were completely outclassed, as the scores will indicate, the score at Bloomsburg being 47 to 15, and on the home floor 46 to 9; in this game many of the reserve men saw service.

Lebanon Valley was able to nose out a two-point victory, 29 to 27, it was one of the hardest fought games seen in the Alumni Gymnasium for a number of years.

The Varsity made its first trip to Gettysburg and held them to the close score of 35 to 29, the lowest score that the two institutions have had on that floor for a number of years. The team lost to Mt. St. Marys in a very rough game and were defeated by the score of 35 to 24.

The Carlisle Indians were defeated on the same trip, 34 to 33, in a fast game which ran into extra periods. The score at the end of the regular time was 28 all and neither team was able to score during the first extra period, but in the second each scored two field goals and Miggs tossed in the winning point from the foul line.

The Hasset School of Gymnastics were our next victims and were defeated by the score of 28 to 27. This was probably one of the best teams on the schedule, and it was not until the last minute that one was able to pick out the winners.

Lebanon Valley and Albright both defeated us on their own floors, but in both encounters the victors were given a hard battle.

Bucknell defeated us by the score of 36 to 30 during a hard fought game in which Susquehanna held the lead until the last few minutes of the play.

The season was closed very triumphantly when we defeated both Bucknell and Albright, two of our rivals. The Albright score was rather one-sided, 49 to 28, and at no time did they have the lead. Bucknell was defeated for the first time in two years in a game that was both fast and clean, and the score of 28 to 25 was close through the entire contest.

A noticeable and interesting fact is that in only one of our games were we outscored from the field, and in a number of cases where defeated it was by foul goals.

The work of the veterans, Capt. Shannon and Middlesworth, was the best they had ever shown. Of the new men who made up the team Bowser, Calahan and Kirk showed that they were in the old game to win and never gave up until the whistle blew.

1917 GIRLS' BASKETBALL REVIEW

THE basketball season of 1917 was the most successful ever enjoyed by a girls' basketball team at Susquehanna. Eight games in all were played and Susquehanna was victorious in six of these. They outscored their opponents by thirty points, which is an excellent record considering the caliber of the teams that were played. The only two defeats were at the hands of Mount Carmel and the Hasset School of Harrisburg, both games being played on foreign floors. The Mount Carmel team had not been defeated for four years until they met Susquehanna on the home floor early in the season. The Hasset Club is considered one of the best teams in the state and holds the Catholic championship of Pennsylvania, so both defeats were at the hands of fast teams. These defeats were also paid off when the Co-Eds met these teams on the home floor and defeated them both by the close margin of one point, the score with Mount Carmel being 18-17 and that with the Hasset Club being 13-12. The other teams played were all considered very good. Reedsville received its first defeat also from Susquehanna at Burnham, and Lebanon Valley has a team this year that any school might be proud to defeat.

That the season was a success was largely due to the efforts of Coach Peters. He was untiring in his efforts to turn out a winning team and was rewarded in this effort before the season was over. Team work was a big factor in the success of the team, which was the result of efficient coaching. The team was indeed fortunate to secure a coach with the ability of B. A. Peters. His extensive knowledge of basketball and several years of experience on the Varsity team made him hard to beat as a coach.

Lulu Fetterolf was the leading all around player on the team. She not only played a fine floor game, but was responsible for about one half of the team's points. The mainstays of the team were Capt. Hall, L. Fetterolf, Persing, Woodruff, Schoch, Rearick, and H. Fetterolf. Leffler, Rheinhold and Rhoads were also ready to enter the game at any moment without weakening the team.

THE SEASON'S RECORD

TRACK TEAM

TRACK SEASON 1916.

On June 12th, 1916, a Track Meet was held with Susquehanna's old rival, Bucknell. It proved to be one of the closest contested meets that have ever been staged on Warner Field. From the crack of the gun in the hundred yard dash Victory seemed to favor Susquehanna, but the last two events turned the tide of victory into defeat to the tune of 51-59.

In the first event which was a century dash Swoope and Shannon breasted the tape a good two yards ahead of the Bucknell men. The 220-yard dash was a repetition of the first event, with Shannon and Smith leading the Orange and Blue men over the line. Waldron ran a good race in the 880-yard run and added three points to the tally with a good second. Mahoney left his competitors 50 yards in the rear as he broke the tape in the mile run. Grossman took an easy second in the two mile run.

Swoope won four first places in the low and high hurdles, the shot put and the hundred yard dash.

Considering the fact that Susquehanna had very little training on the track and knowing that Bucknell had an experienced man at the helm, the showing made can almost be considered as a victory.

SUMMARY

100-yard dash—Won by Swoope, Susquehanna; second, Shannon, Susquehanna; third, Shilling, Bucknell. Time—10 1-5 seconds.

220-yard dash—Won by Shannon, Susquehanna; second, Smith, Susquehanna. Time—25.15 seconds.

440-yard dash—Won by Shilling, Bucknell; second, Pierce, Bucknell; Time—57 seconds.

880-yard dash—Won by Pierce, Bucknell; second, Waldron, Susquehanna. Time—2:17 1-5.

One-mile run—Won by Mahoney, Susquehanna; second, Bachman, Bucknell; third, Grossman, Susquehanna. Time—5:02 4-5.

Two-mile run—Won by Butt, Bucknell; second, Grossman, Susquehanna. Time—10:56 2-5.

Low hurdles—Won by Swoope, Susquehanna; second, Lawrence, Bucknell. Time—20 2-5 seconds.

High hurdles—Won by Swoope, Susquehanna; second, Lawrence, Bucknell. Time—17 2-5 seconds.

Shot put—Won by Swoope, Susquehanna; Second, Williams, Bucknell. Distance—38 2-10 feet.

High jump—Won by Davids, Bucknell; second, Waldron, Susquehanna. Height—5 feet 10 inches.

Hammer throw—Won by Leighton, Bucknell; Second, Winglebeck, Bucknell. Distance—117 feet 6 inches.

Discus—Won by Ganzel, Bucknell; second, Leighton, Bucknell. Distance—117 feet 4 inches.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

OF THE vast number of organizations of the college community the most beneficial and helpful to the student body in general is the Christian Association. One need only look at its aim, the development of Christian character, to discover its field of usefulness in this day when the church is reaffirming in new terms and with new emphasis the permanent necessity of exalting the standards of Christ if society is to attain its ultimate goal, and the kingdom of God is to be realized upon earth.

During the past year The Young Women's Christian Association of Susquehanna University has steadily advanced. The regular meetings were well attended. The services during the World's Week of Prayer were very helpful and inspiring. Social Service work is ever gaining favor with the members. The little tots in the rural communities in which our activities are centered eagerly await the coming of the girls. We feel sure our efforts are amply repaid when we see the smiling faces around us. The annual Christmas party was given just before that holiday and we were again able to gladden about thirty children.

Three delegates were sent to the Conference of Eagles Mere. This is the largest number that ever represented us at the summer conference. We were also privileged to send one delegate to the International Prohibition Rally held in Lexington, Ky., during the Christmas vacation.

By providing a laboratory for voluntary religious activities, by the compelling example of influential religious personalities, by the stimulus of intercollegiate relations and the discernment of a world horizon, the student movements develop students into Christian leaders. Trained within college walls, they go forth to take their share of leadership in the church, at home and abroad. Thus are raised up from year to year leaders who have wrought out their own Christian convictions and are translating those convictions into service. In increasing measure the Christian Association Student Movement is helping answer the petition of our Lord, "Pray ye the Lord of the harvests that He send forth more laborers into the harvest."

In the early part of the nineteenth century a group of young men assembled in a merchants' store in London for the purpose of prayer meetings and heart-to-heart talks. These meetings were of such benefit in spiritual uplift that they grew in numbers, and in 1844 this band was organized by Sir George Williams, now known as the Y. M. C. A.

In 1851 this organization came to America, and up until 1880 it had some very dark days. But at that time it was the conception that the Y. M. C. A. stood for development of the entire man,—spiritually, educationally, physically and socially. From 1880 until the present time it has been growing, and is now one of the greatest organizations for the college student.

The Y. M. C. A. of to-day has for its object development of all-around Christian boyhood and manhood and tends to prepare men to render more easily, willingly and effectively, the highest type of Industrial, Social and Christian service. Our branch at Susquehanna in the past year has been endeavoring to fulfill this mission.

During Thanksgiving vacation Deputation Terms were sent out over the entire Snyder County, organizing the Sunday Schools and encouraging more systematic, earnest Christian work. This successful campaign came to a climax, by a grand rally at Middleburg. Many other groups of men were sent out during the entire year engaged in all kinds of Christian service.

Early in the fall term a membership campaign was conducted with success, and as a result the majority of the young men and Faculty are members. These men have not fallen away from the original idea of the Association, as was shown by the weekly group prayer meetings and heart to heart talks in the different buildings.

Very able speakers were engaged for the regular weekly meetings. Also a course of lectures was given in the Winter Term; Dr. Kemp, "Man of One Talent"; Dr. Cartright, "The Marbel Waiteth," and Dr. Spooner, "Is Christianity a Humbug?"

This year the Y. M. C. A. has not accomplished everything in the field of Christian service, but let us hope that this is just the beginning of greater work for our Master, and a greater Susquehanna.

We hope that the influence of the Y. M. C. A. may rule our lives and some day we may look back and find the clear record of the past and see the Young Men's Christian Association of Susquehanna on a firm foundation and a life saving station for the young men.

PHILO

THE clock that marks the passing of the ages has ticked off the ending of another year. Tireless Time with his trusty scythe has completed yet another swath around the field of our existence, binding into sheaves of Memory the ripened grain of Achievement.

To live more broadly in the future we must build more widely in the present upon the experiences—the triumphs and the mistakes—of the past. To be a successful factor in the college life of the future, The Philosophian Literary Society must turn a retrospective glance over the activities of the past year—must take inventory of the stock of achievements—and adopt her changing course to the changing tide of undergraduate thought and habit.

The year just ended has by no means reached the high-water mark of activity in Philo's illustrious history. Interest in the various lines of literary work has been on the decline, and with this lapse Philo has also suffered. Weekly meetings have oftentimes been poorly attended and programs listlessly rendered.

Times are indeed ripe for a literary revival at Susquehanna. The mythical turtle could at no better time tremble and shake our little literary world. Philo aims to prepare and strengthen college men for leadership, and yet at the present time her greatest need is for leaders. Susquehanna needs leaders to represent her in the world of literature, and it is in the literary society where they must acquire their preliminary training and practice.

Too many outside interests have been permitted to interfere with the work of the society. Let us during the coming year see that Philo and her weekly meetings shall receive due consideration. Let every undergraduate member resolve to take an active interest in her work. To our alumni let us extend a word of invitation—"Come and see us build up Philo to a higher level than ever before attained."

CLIO

THERE are times in the history of any organization when discouragement and destruction knocks at the door, when the members feel that their labors have been in vain, but the organization which is able to survive is so much the stronger and better fitted to combat on life's great battle-field. Such have been the conditions in Clio during the past year, though weakened in the beginning by the departure of many of our most loyal Clionians, yet those who have remained, and those who have entered our ranks since, have put their hands to the plow and endeavored to make a history for Clio of which she need not be ashamed.

How well the organization has succeeded can only be measured by the success of its individual members, for whose benefit it has been organized. If we have progressed in debating or public speaking in general, then Clio has not been losing ground. And every member who has been working earnestly can truthfully testify that they have been greatly benefited by the experience received on the rostrum.

Though success has crowned our efforts to a great extent, yet there is much to be accomplished if Clio is to hold the place it should hold in the preparing of us for our life's work. And by co-operation and hard work we can raise Clio to a plane of still greater perfection and place her high standard on a still higher peak.

SCSQUELIANNA STUDENT BAND

THE COLLEGE BAND.

THIS youngest of the organizations of Susquehanna University has developed to such large proportions of efficiency and capability that it is equal to any other one organization of the University.

Last Spring Term the Faculty saw fit to purchase uniforms and instruments for the use of a prospective student band, which was not organized until this year, but which has, since its organization, provided our Varsity games with such "pep" as they never had before. Especially was this true in the Basketball games, where the Band played the college songs while the students sang them, such a show of college spirit alone would have gone a long way to making our team so victorious.

The Band consists of some thirty pieces, under the direction of Prof. T. Otto, and the management of A. W. Smith, and more capable and energetic persons could not have been chosen for these offices, and it is through their efforts that the College Band has risen to such a prominent place in the school life of Susquehanna. Each individual member worked to make it a success, and it did indeed succeed.

The school in general wishes to thank the Band and her officers for their unceasing efforts to provide Susquehanna with a Band with which she can indeed be proud.

Whom it has pleased the All-Wise Father to call to their reward. By their death Susquehanna has lost four friends whose helpful interest and untiring devotion have always been toward the best interests of our Alma Mater. While we sincerely mourn their departure, we know that our loss is their gain and that He, by whose will they were removed, doeth all things well, wherefore we bow in humble submission to His divine will.

She was a Susquehanna co-ed;
 He was a Susquehanna man,
 And during the summer season
 They gathered a coat of tan,
 Which caused unlimited wonder.
 People cried, “What a disgrace!”
 For each of the pair was sunburned
 On the opposite side of the face.

CONSIDERATE

Editor—“Why don’t you laugh at our jokes?”
 Freshman—“I have been taught to respect the old and infirm.”

TWO OF A KIND

Irate Professor to Student—"You are not fit for decent company. Come up here with me."

QUITE RIGHT

A.—"I should think it would be quite dangerous for Markley to smoke?"

B.—"Why?"

C.—"The gas might ignite."

CHAIN OF NATURAL HISTORY

"Notice the evolution of plants. The cowslip, the milk weed, the buttercup."

APPRECIATIVE

Freshman Writing Home—One of the social functions I most enjoyed this year was our first gathering on the athletic field. We were able to come in such close touch with each other.

THE REAL QUESTION

"My son," said the father impressively, "Suppose I should be taken away suddenly, what would become of you?"

"Why," said the son, "I'd stay here. The question is, what would become of you?"

HUMANE

W. Rearick—"Why do Seibert Hall girls close their eyes when they sing?"

J. Lingle—"I suppose they are so tender-hearted that they cannot bear to see any one suffer."

INTERESTING

Talking of closing eyes reminds us that Miss Housenfluck desires to know the reason why girls close their dreamy eyes when some bold swain steals a kiss. Those of you knowing the reason please enlighten and prove it to Miss Art.

UNTRUE

"Why are Juniors like a kerosene lamp?"

"Because they are not very bright, are often turned down and frequently go out at night."

HIGH IDEALS

Elizabeth Hall—"Isn't your ideal of a man one who can take care of home and the babies?"

Eva Grove—"Gracious, NO! That's my idea of a husband."

THINK IT OVER

How would it feel if you saw a Professor advertised to lecture on "Fools," and when you bought a ticket you found it marked, "Admit one."

Pappy—"No woman ever made a fool out of me."
Satan—"Who did?"

CONVINCED

Jay Riden—"For my part I think women are the salt of the earth."
Jim Horton—"Guess you're right when you consider the number of men they have driven to drink."

NO DOUBT

Peg Leffler—"Yes, in a battle of tongues a woman can always hold her own."
Pete—"Perhaps she can—but she never does."

LITTLE PLATIGRINS

What a man sews, that he shall also rip.
Keynote of good breeding—Be natural.
Room for improvement—the chapel.
Man's troubles are nine-tenths feminine gender.
A rolling gait gathers three policemen.
What is one man's meat is another man's high cost of living.
The cow is a no-bull and kine-hearted creature.

HE OUGHT TO KNOW

Professor—"So you claim the world is round. How do you know it is not square?"
Janson—"I've had too many dealings with it."

SAFETY FIRST

"They say Jim Horton had a bad accident the other morning. He was on his way to college (in his dreams) and slipped on the slippery pavement and cut his — eight o'clock class."

COLLEGE LIFE

Cram, exam, flunk, trunk!

I rejoice in a well-developed faculty of bluffing.—"Dot" Rearick.
I am struck with so many original ideas that my brain is black and blue.—Earl Mohney.
His flow of language was something stupendous.—Ralph Woodruff.
And I don't think I'm a very "noisy" person.—"Sam" Stauffer.
A talking machine that you need not change records.—Stella Schadel.

A RESOLUTION

Doctor—"You'll have to cut out some of this wine, women and song stuff!"
Blair Harman—"All right, Doc. I'll never sing again."

Furst—

I thought I knew I knew it all—
But now I must confess
The more I know I know I know,
I know I know the less.

AIN'T IT AWFUL

All great men are dead.
Washington is dead.
Lincoln is dead.
McKinley is dead.
And Park Huntingdon is feeling kind of sick.

POOR GIRL

The Mother—"I hope they don't give you any nicknames at school."
Kathrine Persing—"Yes, ma. They call me corns."
Mother—"Dreadful! Why do they call you that?"
Kathrine—"Cause I'm always at the foot of the class."

Dr. Woodruff (in Latin)—"When I see some of the marks in your books it makes me hot, but when I come across hoof-prints I go down to zero."

A FRIEND IN NEED

When all my thinks in vain are thunk,
When all my winks in vain are wunk,
What saves me from an awful flunk?
"My Pony."

Haec in Gallia est importantus.
(A Freshman's translation): "Hike into Gaul it is important."

Professor Brungart in Latin—"Slave, where is thy horse?"
Sterling Decker—"In my desk, but indeed Professor, I never use it."

A Hug—Energy gone to waist.
A Vacuum—The space between Freshmen's ears.

Frank Staib. To prove a Freshman is an affliction. Proof:

A Freshman is new.
New means not old.
Not old means not stale.
Not stale means fresh.
To be fresh means to be smart.
Smart is a pain.
Pain is an affliction.
Therefore, a Freshman is an affliction.

UNEXPECTED

"Your time has come," says the Angel of Death, thrusting a bony finger through the button hole of Cyril Speigelmire's coat.

"Not prepared today," answers "Speig" dazedly.

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN AT SUSQUEHANNA

Miss Housenfluck holding her tongue.

Eva Grove having the same male escort twice in succession, hand running, without a stop.

Potteiger fussing.

The "Profs" springing anything new in chapel talks.

Steininger getting a hair cut.

Horton getting in early.

Harry Miller not eating.

"Joe" Fetterolf with a grouch.

The Commercial students present at chapel.

Woodruff studying.

WOULDN'T IT BE FUNNY TO HAVE

Swartz think before he spoke?

Persing recite in Logic?

Middlesworth not shoot baskets in a game?

Jim Lingle's face freeze?

Schadel seen and not heard?

Elizabeth Hall weigh 200?

Silas Schadel as an English prof.?

BUT IT WOULD BE TRAGIC TO HAVE

Christine Schoch thirty pounds thinner.

Burleigh Peters' voice and not use it.

"Bunny" Swartz lose her looks.

Paul Harmon take a third degree in heart breaking.

CAN YOU IMAGINE

Peg Leffler in short skirts?

Mrs. Ayer not being pleasant?

Eva Grove not kidding the fellows?

Stahl forgetting herself?

Dot Rearick growing painfully thin?

The Preceptress playing basket ball?

Callahan not happy?

Blair Harman walking like a soldier?

Lives of scholars all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
Just by asking foolish questions,
Taking up Professors' time.

SOCIAL LEMONADE

Saying sour things in a sweet way.
Prof. Allison—"Why are the Middle Ages called the Dark Ages?"
Stella Schadel—"Because there were so many Knights."

LITTLE WANTED

Man wants little here below,
But when it comes to dress
A look around will quickly show
That woman wants still less.

"It's better to love what you cannot have than to have what you cannot love."—Congdon.

Jeane Adams—"How far will I go with art?"
Fortune Teller—"Don't take Arthur too seriously, for he isn't in earnest."

PROVEN

If you use a pony in Latin, the Exam. will get your goat.

Professor in Economics—"What is extravagance?"
Sleepy Student—"Wearing a necktie when you have a beard."
Book Agent—"This book will do half your studies for you."
Jim Horton—"Give me two."

THE LAST WORD.

AT LAST, this is our production. The task is all over but the cheering; and we don't expect that. If you wish to interview the editors or business manager, you can find them in the insane asylum. Before we bid a last farewell, allow us to suggest that you investigate the respectable portion of this publication, the advertisements. We recommend that you patronize the advertisers, as they are the supporters of such an undertaking as a college annual.

We anticipate building a refuge for the disabled editors with the rocks we receive,

Yours, very much the worse for wear,

THE EDITORS.

Be Dissatisfied

Have the desire to know about the progress of the world outside of your own immediate circle.

The study of a carefully selected list of books is the surest and easiest way to acquire this knowledge.

Form the habit of reading one worth-while book every week, and you will see the results in the increased enthusiasm with which you will tackle your problems.

Knowledge is Power

Our agent at the college will get you any book on any subject, at the lowest possible cost.
